Guest Speaker

Dr. María Díez Campelo

Associate Professor
Dept of Hematology
University Hospital of Salamanca
Spain

After graduating from medical school in 1999, Prof. Díez Campelo started medical training in Hematology.

Since 2005, she has been working at the Department of Hematology at the University Hospital of Salamanca, IBSAL in Spain.

Between 2006 and 2009, she completed a 3-year postdoctoral fellowship provided by ISCII.

From 2009, she was responsible for the section of Morphology and Hematimetry in the Hematology Department and since 2017, she held a position of Associate Professor of Hematology at the University of Salamanca in Spain.

Since October 2016, Prof. Díez Campelo is heading the Myelodysplastic Syndromes team at the University Hospital in Salamanca.

Her clinical expertise lies in hematological malignancies with a focus on MDS and AML. The main scientific interest involves the translational exploration of innovative treatment options for these patients.

She is a member of the Spanish MDS group (GESMD) since 2009 and head of GESMD since 2018.

She is also involved in the European Myelodysplastic Syndromes Cooperative Group (EMSCO).
