Dr. Anand Patel is an assistant professor of medicine, director of the inpatient leukemia service, and associate program director for the adult hematology-oncology fellowship at the University of Chicago.

He also serves on the NCCN panels for AML and MPNs.

He received his MD from the University of Missouri-Columbia where he was also elected to the Alpha Omega Alpha (AOA) medical honor society.

He then completed internal medicine residency at the McGaw Medical Center of Northwestern University and served as chief medical resident.

Subsequently, he went to the University of Chicago for adult hematology-oncology fellowship and served as chief fellow.

Dr. Patel is an expert in the treatment of acute leukemia and myeloid malignancies.

He is also an active clinical investigator with a focus on developing novel approaches in the management of myeloproliferative neoplasms.

He is particularly interested in improving outcomes in patients with accelerated and blast-phase myeloproliferative neoplasms.
