Dr. Astrid Pavlovsky was trained in Buenos Aires Argentina with clinical training in Boston USA and a post graduate degree in Lymphomas from Ulm University in Germany.

She is a distinguished hematologist specializing in lymphomas, with extensive expertise in clinical research, academic leadership, and patient care.

She serves as the Medical Director of the Pavlovsky Hematology Center and is a staff member at FUNDALEU, a leading institution in onco-hematology in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Additionally, she is the Vice President of the GATLA Clinical Research Cooperative Group, where she has been instrumental in advancing clinical trials for hematologic malignancies and also collaborating in large cooperative studies as the international T cell Registry.

Dr. Pavlovsky is highly committed to international education and scientific collaboration.

She is an active member of the European Society of Hematology (ESH), the Lymphoma Hub, and Women in Lymphoma, where she serves on the Steering Committee advocating for leadership equity in the field.

In Argentina, she plays a key role in the Argentinian Society of Hematology, contributing to postgraduate education and the advancement of hematologic research.

Dr. Pavlovsky has led and participated in numerous national and international clinical trials as both Principal and Sub-Investigator, particularly in Hodgkin and non-Hodgkin lymphomas.

She has contributed to the development of treatment guidelines, including as a reviewer for the NCCN Guidelines for Diffuse Large B-cell Lymphomas.

Dr. Pavlovsky has lectured at premier global hematology conferences and is committed to provide strategic insights on the development of novel therapies.

In addition to her clinical and research commitments, Dr. Pavlovsky has an extensive academic career, serving as a lecturer for postgraduate courses in hematology at the Universidad de Buenos Aires and the Argentinian Society of Hematologists.

She has authored numerous peer-reviewed publications in high-impact journals and continues to contribute to education in the advancements in lymphoma treatment.

Dr. Divya Manohar
